LAWYER ADAMS WILL NOT BE HERE EITHER.

Judge Ritchie Renders Judgments In Several Cases Under Advisement-Mrs. Hickman Granted a Decree of Divorce-Mrs. Caroline Jensen Alleges That Her Husband Is a Drunkard and Cruel-Miscellaneous Court Cullings.

At 2:30 6'clock yesterday afternoon the three jurors lacking to complete the panel in the Morris bribery case were obtained in the persons of J. R. Nichols, William Showell and George Nailor, who, with A. B. Jones, Thomas McLelland, H. F. Sampson, J. J. Stewart and John F. Hardie, the five accepted the previous day, made up the quota of eight, who were sworn to well and truly try the case.

Judge Powers, on behalf of the defendant, then entered objections and exceptions were noted to the jurisdiction of the court, to the legality of the jury on the ground that it had not been properly summoned, and that there was no law in the state authorizing the summoning of turners and fixing the summoning of jurors and fixing the terms of court ing the terms of court.

County Attorney Whittemore then made a lengthy opening statement of the prosecution's case and what he expected to prove, which, in substance, was that Morris had agreed to accept the bribe from Hayken and had actually received $5,000 in cash, and that in order to cover up the corrupt transaction, Morris had fixed up a bogus mining deal, by which it was made to appear that Hayken had purchased from Morris a mining claim in the Deep Creek country, and that the parments made by Hayken to Morris were ments made by Hayken to Morris were on account of the fictitious purchase. MARTIN HAYKEN FAILS TO COME. The prosecution announced that Martin Hayken, their principal witness and mainstay, was not present and was not coming, and asked permission to put in the stenographic report of the testimony given by the celebrated Dutchman at the previous trial.

Judge Powers objected on several grounds. First, it appeared that Hay-ken had been subpeoned by mistake on indictment No. 1332, which had been dismissed, and he ought to have been dismissed, and he ought to have been subpoensed on the present indict-ment, No. 1,190. Second, that the laws of the state and the laws of the United States provided that every person ac-cused of a criminal offense must be confronted by his accusers in person. Third, that the prosecution had not used due diligence to have Mr. Hay-ken uppent. ken present.

Evidence was introduced to show that Ha. ken came here on December 25 for the purpose of being a witness at the trial, which was set for December 21, and which Judge Powers said The money order department of the systoffice will be closed today; general lelivery will be open from $\frac{1}{2}$ to 12. stamps, to 12. carriers will make two deliveries in the business district, and one in the resistance portion of the city.

Adams could not come either. Counsel argued that the accused had been confronted with the witnesses at the previous trial, and that as this was the same case over again the stenographic report might be introduced. Authorities were quoted in support of this view, and after some more arguments by Judge Powers, who said that Hayles, having received his pay in advance and having come ten days ago and was not then wanted, now refused to come again, the court overruled the objections of the defense and allowed Hayken's testimony as given at the last trial to be used.

Judge Rhodes then took the witness stand and had just fairly commenced reading Hayken's testimony when court adjourned till 19 o'clock on Saturday morning.

Amusing Encounter of a German Colonel at a Court Ball.

A good story comes from Berlin. At a ball given there not very long ago a pompous colonel ran up against a young officer, evidently fresh from the military schools, whose only decoration was a large medallion set in brilliants. "I say, lieutenant, what the dickens is that concern you have on?" scornfully asked the older warrior. "It's an order, colonel," answered the young man, modestly. "An order? Not a Prussian one. I know of no such," retorted the colonel, jealously.

The old colonel began to think the young man was making game of him.

"Potztausend, and who may your grandmother be?" he exclaimed, Firstely, "Her majesty, Queen Victoria of England," said the lieutenant, whose face was dancing with merriment by this time. It was Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein: The colonel got very red in the face, and withdrew, with a profound bow and apology, to take a back seat for the rest of the evening. Prince Albert has been making merry over the incident ever since, and even grandmamma herself had a good laugh when she was told of it.
